

Sebastian Mikosz - CEO, LOT Polish Airlines

Sebastian Mikosz is a manager with expertise in business consulting and management. He has gained his professional experience working in Poland and France. Recently he was a director at Deloitte, an international professional services company. His main responsibility was to develop business consulting services for the public sector and to support the inflow and development of foreign investors in Poland.

He is a graduate of the prestigious Institut d'Études Politiques de Paris (with majors in economics and finance) and has completed several business management courses and training programmes. After graduation he worked for Arthur Andersen in Paris where he specialised in investments in the emerging markets.

In 2000 he worked on establishing the first independent online brokerage house in Poland. In 2001 he took the position of the General Director of the French Chamber of Commerce and Industry in Poland. In June 2003 he was appointed as Vice President of the Polish Information and Foreign Investment Agency. There, he supervised the Departments of Investor Assistance, Regional Cooperation and Research and Analysis. He conducted negotiations with the largest foreign investors in Poland such as LG, Philips, MAN, Whirlpool or Michelin. Next he worked as Managing Director at the Warsaw office of Amrop Hever, a HR consultancy company.

He is a fluent speaker of French and English. He is married and has three sons.