

Clay Sun
EVA Airways

Clay Sun, former Passenger Management Division Executive Vice President at EVA Airways Corporation, took the responsibilities as new president of the airline on January 1st, 2018.

He began his career at Evergreen Group in 1986. The executive first worked at Evergreen Marine Corporation where he gained experience in business and corporate planning.

Clay Sun was transferred to EVA Airways in 1991, the year the airline launched its maiden flight. He progressively expanded his expertise through a variety of roles with steadily increasing responsibilities in personnel, corporate planning, air cargo management and passenger management.

At the same time, he constantly developed global perspectives and strategic insights in the highly competitive international aviation industry with overseas assignments to the United States, Europe and Mainland China.