

STAR ALLIANCE

Round the World Fares – let us inspire you to travel

As an Alliance of 26 airlines, Star Alliance is in a unique position to offer customers the possibility of travelling around the world on a single ticket. The Round the World (RTW) fares are generally an attractive value for money proposition, especially when compared to individual one-way tickets on separate airlines for the same itinerary. The total price of an RTW ticket is dependent on the class of travel, the precise itinerary, mileage and routing selected, as well as currency exchange rate fluctuations.

In terms of distance, customers can create an individual itinerary covering up to 26,000, 29,000, 34,000 or 39,000 miles. To put these levels in perspective, the circumference of the Earth measured at the Equator is approximately 24,901 miles.

Customers can build their own routings within the maximum mileage of the selected fare level. Travel needs to commence and end in the same country and be in one direction, either going East or West, although some zigzagging is permitted within a single continent. Both the Atlantic Ocean and the Pacific Ocean must be crossed once.

Stops lasting 24 hours or more must be made in at least two cities with a maximum of 15 stops permitted for the entire itinerary (minimum of three stops and maximum of five to 12 stops for Special fares).

The Star Alliance RTW fares are available for travel in First, Business, Premium Economy or Economy Class and are valid for 12 months.

Children between the age of two and 11 pay 75 per cent of the applicable adult fare, while infants under two who do not occupy a seat can be taken along for 10 per cent of the applicable adult fare.

BACKGROUNDER

Customers travelling on Star Alliance RTW fares may in principle accrue miles in any of the Frequent Flyer Programmes (FFP) offered by the member airlines. The collected miles can count towards earning Star Alliance Gold or Silver status and can be redeemed for example for free flights, upgrades, hotel stays, etc.

For planning and booking a Round the World journey, travellers can use the “Star Alliance Book & Fly” tool, which is available on the Alliance’s website at <http://www.staralliance.com/en/book-fly>. With just a few clicks, customers can easily plan, save and share their itinerary online. The online tool automatically adapts to the applicable fare rules and calculates the ticket price based on travel distance, number of stopovers, routes and class of service. Once all flights have been booked, electronic tickets can be issued directly via the online tool. In addition to English, the booking engine is currently available in Chinese (Simplified), French, German, Japanese, Portuguese and Spanish.

Alternatively, customers can contact any of the Star Alliance member airlines or a travel agent for booking and purchasing an RTW ticket.

Knowing that in some cases planning an RTW journey can seem a daunting task, Star Alliance has recently added themed itineraries to its Round the World offer. Rather than having to create a journey from scratch, interested travellers can now choose from various themes and a proposed routing will then be offered accordingly. These include: World Food, World Wonders, Architecture Hotspots, Nature Trail, Aquatic Wonders, Cultural Experiences, Natural Wonders, Metropolitan Lifestyle, Great Hotels, Sports Hotspots, Wine Tasting, Romantic Journey, Luxury Lifestyle, and Iconic Film Locations (see also: <http://www.staralliance.com/en/web/staralliance/inspiration>).

The Star Alliance Book & Fly tool has been updated to allow potential travellers to select the closest airport to their home as the starting point of their selected itineraries. Further customisation by adding, removing or exchanging destinations is also possible.

The Star Alliance Round the World fare has been on offer for more than a decade and has developed into a popular Star Alliance fare product. More than half of the Round the World travellers fly in Business Class, more than a third opt for Economy Class and around eight percent for First Class.
